Hi

Thanks for getting back to me so promptly.

The paints we would use are all water based and so will wash away with a rain. We would keep all activities in the open grass area and although I don't anticipate there being any rubbish, the scouting group would be asked to look around the area and pick up any items they see. Obviously that would be you taking my word for this, so if you need to charge a small fee then that is understandable. We have a number of litter pick kits at the hall, so as part of the celebration we could include a litter pick of the park to ensure we leave the park looking better than when we start.

Hope that helps.

Please let me know if You require any further information.

Many Thanks

Amy

Amy thank you for your enquiry. We will take your request as a report to Parks and Open Spaces Team Committee (POST) on 6TH December. I have asked the question if we would require a minimal hire charge or a bond to cover any potential damage or rubbish to picked up after the event. If you can let me know your thoughts on those to potential items, I can include that in my report. I know March is someway off but if I have all relevant information for the 6th we can make a final decision.

Hi

My name is Amy and I help run 1st Swindon Sea Scouts (beavers and cubs groups) based in Haydon Wick. As part of badge work the children are asked to learn about and take part in a number of different religious and cultural activities and celebrations. In 2023 the festival of Holi takes place at the beginning of March and our group were wondering if you would be willing to let us use the field in King George V field play area (as it back onto our meeting hall) to hold a powder paint fight. All paints would be kept away from the play equipment and we would ensure they were not toxic to flora or fauna.

If this is something you would be willing to consider, I would be happy to discuss it with you further if you needed more information.

Please let me know your thoughts and if you think it is something we might be able to arrange.

Kind Regards

Amy
